

teaming experience

All architects collaborate with owners and engineers throughout the life of a project. RDG Planning & Design brings a special talent of being able to collaborate with other architects, splitting the architectural service and fee, for the betterment of our collegiate athletic and recreation projects across the country. The following list identifies our recent sports studio teaming efforts and you can see the very successful projects created as a result of these teaming efforts. Local representation where it is necessary, national skill and capability where it is necessary.
